

crawl after dark

listen — laugh

Cultural District. Late night.

Jarrold Lawson
9 pm
Tickets start at $25
TrustArts.org or at the door.
August Wilson Center, 980 Liberty Ave

Portland-based soul singer, songwriter and pianist, Jarrod Lawson will make his Pittsburgh debut. Lawson's original material is expressive, sophisticated and soulful. JazzFM in London named Lawson "Soul Artist of the Year" in 2015, commenting that whether he plays funk, folk, R&B, rock or jazz, everything he touches turns to soul.

Comedy Royale
10 - 11:30 pm
$12 general admission,
$7 students | BYOB
Arcade Comedy Theater, 811 Liberty Ave

Four talented performers are pitted against one another in a series of quick improv games. Points are awarded by audience judges and one player emerges victorious.

Next Crawl is
Friday, April 21, 2017

10 Future Tenant
819 Penn Ave
For, Fore, Four
 In place of, in front of, after three. These three words show the homonymous value of placement and order. While ordered systems help make our lives easier, they also have the potential to teach us the lesson of expecting the unexpected. Order is thus beneficial yet detrimental instantaneously. It is forever turbulent. Curator: Jamie Earnest
 Artists: Matthew Constant, Kasem Kydd, Christine Shen, Joni Sullivan, Jack Taylor, Lauren Valley, Kate Werth

11 Greater Pittsburgh Arts Council
810 Penn Ave
Parallel Mutation | Contemporary Comics Making In Pittsburgh
 How do you transition comics from a commodity form to a community form? How do you facilitate the growth of the medium past the needs of the market? This exhibition will show how a community of interconnected creators is doing just that through the Pittsburgh Comics Salon.

12 ColorPerfect Printing
804 Penn Ave
Present Day
 Two artists come together to create a world of intrigue and chaos from found and repurposed objects of the past.

13 709 Penn Gallery
Bougainvillea: A Botanic Permutation Drawings / Watercolors by Don Dugal
 This showy bit of flora, overlooked by artists, is examined by Dugal in compositions that reference perceptual color theory and psychological states as well as symphonic music.
 On view through January 22, 2017

14 707 Penn Gallery
Off Road | work by Sarah Keeling
 Image making that diverts boundaries and follows an associative thought process, Off-Road describes themes within the work and the spirit in which it is made. Images and hand-made objects explore subtext within the representation of landscape scenes. Playful photographs bring the outdoors into a portrait studio and images borrow from classic portrayals of idealism and nature in relation to the female figure.
 On view through January 22, 2017

15 Backstage Bar
655 Penn Ave
Daryl Shawn
 Daryl Shawn is a modern troubadour and a disciple of the nylon-string guitar. Originally hailing from Amish farm country in rural Pennsylvania, Shawn has logged many miles in search of musical inspiration and communal experience. With a background in classical guitar, flamenco, jazz and edgy rock, as well as an abiding interest in music from around the globe, Shawn incorporates an unusually broad range of influences into his playing.
 5:00 - 7:30 pm

Ronni Weiss
 Guitar (Eric Susoeff), bass (Miles Jackson) and vocals (Weiss) come together in an intimate setting for an evening of smooth jazz standards and cool blues tunes.
 7:45 - 8:45 pm

Behind It | Janice Schuler
 Dimensions merge into a new plane of sight in this visual art.

16 Verve360
142 6th St
bombyx collective | PASSAGE
 Children can play in a free flow of imagination and in-the-moment interactions. As we grow into adults, we often harden into our roles and live more in the past and future than the present. Who are we when we return to that unfettered flow of childhood? Does the path lead us back to the same adult that we were before?
 8:30 - 8:50 pm, 9:30 - 9:50 pm

17 The Lantern
600 Liberty Ave
Luminous / Weightless | Hannah Altman
 Luminous / Weightless is a series of photographic and installation work that celebrates the female form. The pieces are created to let physical light exhale from the body, celebrating the light that exists within the soul of a woman.
 On view through January 22, 2017.
